2018 Summer Reading Program

The 2018 Summer Reading Program is almost here! Reading is something you do anyway, so why not earn prizes for it?

We have programs for children, teens, and adults. For children and teens, participating is a way to keep skills sharp during the summer. For adults, it's a way to challenge yourself to read more. And for parents, it's a way to show your children that reading is important!

We'll be launching our summer website soon, and our Summer Event Guide will be mailed again this year.

Each of our locations will have something fun going on to start the summer. Everyone invited to drop in and see what's going on!

Cooking Demonstration

Led by Chef and Owner Amy Sins, Langlois is a traveling krewe of culinary entertainers. They will bring the best of New Orleans cuisine and Louisiana cooking to the East Regional Library on Saturday, May 19 at 10am.

Chef Amy will combine classic and modern cooking techniques and ingredients while giving attendees a crash course in one of Louisiana's most classic dishes—gumbo.

Chef Amy has received local, regional, and national praise, including being named one of Southern Living magazine's "Southerners of the Year" in 2016.

This culinary event is sponsored by the St. Charles School Foundation through a grant from the United Way of St. Charles.

Beneath the Weight

The St. Charles Parish Library will host "Beneath the Weight," a free, three-part workshop about ending stress eating, at the St. Rose Branch on Saturdays, May 5, 12, and 19 at 10:30am. The sessions are two and a half hours long.

SelfCare Health Initiatives, a nonprofit healthcare organization, will present the workshop.

The workshops have no lectures, diets, exercises, or products. Participants do self-focused activities about their current and past eating lifestyles and then help each other to learn to live without stress eating.
